

CASE STUDY

Client: Artform International, Loughborough

Project: Installation

Artform needed eight production conveyor cells installing within a time period of one month.

What We Did:

Although the Technical Development Manager at Artform had drawn up the specifications for the new systems and had ordered them direct from the manufacturer, he didn't have the resources available to undertake installation within the timeframe needed.

Cobalt Conveyors interpreted the manufacturer's plans for the conveyor systems and arranged for complete installation from start to finish. The system was bespoke to Artform's manufacturing process and had to comply with strict pallet sizes, so precision was of the essence.

Being fully compliant with all HSE and insurance requirements, means that Cobalt Conveyors can supply an installation team for projects where kit has been supplied direct from the manufacturer.

"Time constraints meant that I needed an installation solution that was both quick and efficient. Cobalt Conveyors' team provided that solution and the standard of the workmanship was very high."
